COAST ARTILLERY IN STATE REPORT

Colonel Stern Criticized Command Following His Inspection.

SERGEANT WAS DRUNK

State View of Command Is Published for First Time.

In view of the inquiry now being conducted into the affairs of the Virunnual inspection of this branch of the service made by Colone! Jo Lune Stern, the assistant inspector-general, is of interest. This has not heretofore been published, although it will appear in the forthcoming annual report of the Adjutant-General, was the report of the officers at Fort Monroe, made to the War Depart-ment, which precipitated the investigation now going on.

In this connection, it is learned that Second Lieutenant E. W. Page, of the Second Company, who has resigned, did not do so because of criticisms, but beause of his departure from Norfolk He did not take part in the Fort Monroe encampment. Colonel Stern's report is as follows:

First Company, Norfolk.

Bodies Blown to Pieces and Only Few Fragments Are Found.

Marquette, Mich., February 6 .- In a disastrous explosion ten men met instant death at the plant of the Plute Powder Company, in the outskirts of Ishpemirg, late to-day. One man was injured. The bodies of the dead were blown to pieces.

The explosion took place in the gelatine powder house. Every man in this building was blown to pieces. Three men were absent from the building and escaped.

What caused the explosion is not

What caused the explosion is not known. Gelatine powder is largely composed of nitro-glycerine, and it is supposed that the mixture was being supposed that the mixture was being stirred in the big crucible within the nouse, when the stuff let go.

About 1,000 pounds exploded. Only iwenty minutes before the disaster 5,000 pounds of the explosive were removed. The main plant was little damaged, and the shock felt in Ishpeming was hardly perceptible. Windows in Wintrop, a mile away, however, were broken. Immediately after the explosion the ran out to learn what part of the plant had been blown up. They hastened to the place where the gelatine building had stood, and found a stretch of bare ground, and splintered timbers scattered over a wide area around the spot. Only a few fragments of the bodies

King's Speech Coloriesr. The King's speech from the throne was brief and colorless. It opened with a filial reference to the death of King Edward. The only references to foreign affairs were a mention of the fact that negotiations had been opened with Japan for a new commercial for filing papers, and orders are kept in Persia over the disturbance of in envelopes as received. Books neatly kept. Discharge papers not removed slon of interest in the approaching imtreaty, and an allusion to the friction perial conference was made.

Uses Amended Onth. In making the declaration of faith King George used for the first time the amended form adopted at the last session of Parliament and which omits the traditional reference to the Cath-olic Church, which was offensive to the adherents of that faith.

From the paucity of the legislative proposals it is evident that the gov-ernment has determined to allow nothing beyond necessary financial measures to interfere with action on the veto bill. The suffragettes are already threatening a renewal of their activities because they were not mentioned in the speech, and the Laborites are much put out for the reason that it contained no promise of a bill deal-ing with the hated Osborne judgment, That the Nationalists are satisfied with their position was indicated when at a meeting held late in the day they decided not to introduce any private bills during the present session.

Both Lord Lansdowne, in the House of Lords, and A. J. Baifour, in the House of Commons, the respective leaders of the opposition, took occasion to denounce the reciprocity agreement between the United States and Canada, but the evening session of Parliament was mainly devoted to get-ting the legislative ship under way. Premier Asquith gave formal notice of the veto bill and his intention to claim the whole time of the house until the Easter recess in order to get the veto bill disposed of before the coronation. Lord Lansdowne intimated that the House of Lords was still ready to ne-gotiate with the government on the necessary changes in the constitution of the upper chamber and the relations between the two houses. James Ramsey McDonald, who to-day was elected chairman of the Labor party to replace George Nicoll Barnes, who retired or account of illness, characterized Mr Balfour's description of the reciprocity agreement as an imperial disaster as the most awkward and colossal blunder he had ever heard in Parliament.

The Prime Minister, in answer to the opposition speeches, said that for the present it would be wise to withhold criticism of the reciprocity agreement It was as certain as the rising of the sun that sooner or later the United Chesterfield and Fluvanna Will Be Free of Stigma After April 1.

After months of work. State Veterinarian J. G. Ferneyhough was able to announce last night that on April 1 the counties of Chesterfield and Fluvanna will be taken out of the quarantine district, and will be put on a parity with those counties which have been enjoying immunity from restriction. The proper papers were signed yesterday by the Board of Supervisors of Chesterfield county, were indorsed last night by Dr. Ferneyhough, and were forwarded to the Burcau of Antimal Industry in Washington. The consent of this bureau had, of course, been previously obtained.

As a matter of fact, inasmuch as in the eyes of Uncle Sam cities are part of the counties in which they are situated, it has been unlawful not only to ship cattle from Chesterfield county, but from South Richmond. Although for nearly ten months the city on the south of the river has been a part of Richmond, it has been against the law to send cattle from the south to the north side of the James.

against the law to send cattle from the south to the north side of the James.

Few Farms Reserved.

Of course, some farms in Chester-field are still infected, and will be maintained in quarantine until they are cleaned up, but the county as a whole will be out on April 1. Gradually the infection will be removed from the individual farms.

Virginia's cattle quarantine laws have proved most valuable to the stock raisers and shippers. In 1896, when the United States government was on the point of putting the whole State under quarantine because of the prevalence of Texas cattle tick, the laws were changed so as to provide for inspection, and by this means many counties were exempt from the first. When Dr. Ferneyhough went into office, in 1902, there were thirty-two counties below the quarantine line, while after April 1 there will be but seven counties in the State whence cattle shipments will be tabooed, and in two of these there are exempted magisterial districts. Dr. Ferneyhough has kept after the situation all the time, and has induced a gradual cleaning up of infected localities.

For fifteen years it has been illegal to ship any cattle at all out of Chesterfield county, save during the open season, from December 15 to March 15, and then only upon inspection and approval of each sale.

The meeting last night was attended by a great throng, as was the service of Sunday afternoon, and the large audience seemed deeply affected by what was said. Many of those who were present at the Sunday service were seen again in the audience last night, so great was the impression made upon them by the impassioned sermons of the first meeting.

Special features are being arranged to make the services attractive and interesting, and much time has been expended in the music that is being rendered every night. The hymn book used at these meetings is one of the recent additions to the choir.

Heretofore the lobby at least has been kept open the entire night in order that the telephone booth may be of use in case of emergency.

Also, instead of keeping the lobby open to the public all day Sunday the entire building will be closed on that duy except from 12 to 1 P. M.

Mr. Smith further says that he has reason to believe that the beautiful smooth floors of the lobby have been used as a crap table by dice-rolling parties after the office proper has seen closed. Since this feature has been brought to the notice of the police it is said that the patrolmen on duty will make a special effort to raid those little games.

Postmaster Smith believes that the nuisance has come to such a point to demand that a stop shall be made, and he has not only reported the whole affair to the police, but has written to Mayor Richardson asking that a special policeman be stationed at the office on Sundays.
